

LAW OF VOLITIONAL RESPONSIBILITY: Misery Quotients

1. Self-imposed: Voluntarily assumed or endured.

Result of wrong thinking and wrong motivation by assuming these ideas are worthy of consideration.

2. Self-induced: Willfully acquired or brought on.

Wrong decisions based on willful use of a faulty inventory of ideas.

3. Self-indulged: Excessive gratification of one's own appetites and desires.

Wrong motivation and wrong decisions produce wrong actions which can be classified in two ways:

Deliberate: To take careful thought of; to consult with another in a process of reaching a decision; premeditated; intentional; not impulsive. (AHDEL)

Impulsive: Inclined to act on impulse rather than thought; uncalculated; spontaneous; unconstrained and unstudied in manner or behavior. Refers to an action prompted by a sudden urge not governed by reason and sometimes contrary to reason. The self-gratification of one's lust patterns. (AHDEL)

AHDEL: American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language, s.vv.: "deliberate," "impulsive."
